6. Employee Survey: Employee survey forms received are now nearing the 2600 mark. We are doing preliminary analysis of the responses based on the first 2200 and will update the analysis after we close the processing of returns.

7. EAA Store: The Kodak Company has provided the EAA Store with one of their new "instant" cameras for familiarization and demonstration. They should be available for sale in approximately one week. The least expensive model will sell for approximately $40. Film will cost approximately $5.00 for a 10-exposure pack.

8. Insurance: GEHA's Accidental Death and Dismemberment Insurance, FAP, until recently permitted male employees to insure their wives but excluded husbands of female employees from being covered under the plan. The underwriter of the plan indicated that this was done because husbands are more likely to be in accident-prone jobs than wives. Since some female employees have expressed an interest in insuring their husbands (non-Agency employees) the underwriter was asked to remove this eligibility restriction. In response, the underwriter has issued a rider to the policy permitting female employees to buy FAP insurance to insure their husbands.
